DANIELSON

Highway and bridge damage in the town of Killingly, as the result of Sunday night's torrential fall of rain, will amount to approximately $2,000, in the opinion of First Selectman John A. Gilbert, who is now in possession of information covering practically the entire town.

At South Killingly, a small bridge on what is known as the Moosup pond highway was swept out by the flood of water and will have to be replaced. Destruction of the bridge has made it necessary to close this road to travel until the bridge can be replaced and it is hoped that this can be done within three or four days. The Horse Hill road is another one that was badly cut up by the rush of water during the storm. Highways in the East Killingly section of the town also were materially damaged. Coomer hill, a long hard climb from the valley at Mashentuck, is badly cut up and the route was reported here Wednesday as closed until it can be repaired. Another road that is closed because impassable to traffic is the one leading from the new state highway to South Killingly eastward to Henry Spaulding's corner. This road is reported gullied to the depth of four feet in places. Roads leading down from the hills all through the eastern section of the town are all covered by the result of the rush of water and some estimates are that more than $2,000 damage has been done along the 156 miles of highway within the town.

At East Killingly, where nine gauges were out during the storm, the fall of water from dusk Sunday evening until Monday morning was approximately three inches, one of the heaviest rains noted in this territory in many years.

Deland Grennon, of the Pace Manufacturing company's force of workers was back at work Wednesday after an experience cutting a live wire with a pair of wire cutters. The basement of the plant on Furnace street, was flooded from the recent heavy rains and the water was interfering with an electric motor. Grennon after pulling some fuses to cut off the electric current, went into the basement to cut a wire to make a readjustment, but picked out a different line than the one on which he had taken out the fuses. When he cut into a live wire 110 volts of electricity shot through him, knocking him unconscious into about a foot of water. He was rescued by a fellow employee who happened to go into the basement directly after Grennon and revived in about 15 minutes. His hands were somewhat burned as the result of his experience.

The old town house property at Killingly Center is to be disposed of by the selectmen, who have advertised for bids, as shown elsewhere in the paper this (Thursday) morning, and he announced the bids are to be opened Saturday, August 5. The selectmen have been advised that they have a legal right to sell the property notwithstanding that a protest against the selling of the property has been publicly made by Charles H. Heath of Killingly Center, who claims title to it. The selectmen have been advised as to the legality of the procedure they are now following to dispose of the property, which, they hold, is rightfully the property of the town.

The postoffice may have a new member added to its force, although Postmaster Raymond Allen made no announcement relative to the matter.

The prospective member of the force will be an office cat. The postoffice department has just authorized the purchase of meat, fish and milk for any cat kept in a United States postoffice, as a protection against the damage or destruction of mail matter, especially parcel post packages containing food stuffs, by rats and mice. The office cat serves as a sort of night watchman, keeping special vigil against the rodent family. Heretofore the department has authorized the purchase of traps and other devices intended to rid offices of rats, but now the cat is specifically provided for so the Danielson office may have a cat if Postmaster Allen decides he wants one. No discrimination is made between republican and democratic cats or those of other political complexions.

At this time, when the railroad company is preparing to build cement curbed walks about the railroad station, talk is again revived of paving the space about the station, at the rear of the Exchange building, and through to Main street at the Danielson Trust company building with Amalgam or some other material. Such paving would very materially improve that important section of the thorough and rid all of the necessity of wading through mud and slush at certain periods of the year.

PUTNAM

More complete reports covering Sunday night's storm in this territory shown Wednesday that roads in towns hereabouts were damaged in the aggregate to the extent of several thousand dollars. In some cases roads were cut down so badly as to make them almost impassable. Much repair work already has been accomplished, but a considerable time must elapse before the damaged highways can be restored to normally good condition.

Putnam lodge of Elks has voted to accept an invitation to be guests of the Willimantic lodge of the order on one of the nights during the fair to be held in Willimantic the coming month. The committee named to make the arrangements for the visitation is made up of A. Newton Vaughan, Ralph Thurston, J. Alfred Gagne, John Lynch and Ralph Bradford.

Willimantic lodge made a splendid showing at the recent Elks' fair in this city, as well giving the Putnam Elks much valuable advice out of their own experience as to running such events while the local affair was being planned. The Putnam Elks are appreciative of all this and are going about their plans of taking a big delegation to Willimantic with right good will. Putnam night at the Willimantic fair is going to be made a big event if early indications can be relied upon, and in this case they can.

At St. Mary's church Wednesday morning, the feast of St. Anne, a novena was completed, with a high mass, of which the pastor, Rev. Charles F. Bedard was celebrant and which was attended by a large number of women and girls of the parish. The past nine nights had brought them together for services at the church and the period was marked by much devoutness and hundreds received communion at the daily mass.

While the chamber of commerce, after considering the matter, has taken no formal action on the suggestion that dancing in the square be made an added feature, Wednesday evening, when the open air concerts are being given, it was agreed by members of the Merchants' committee that there would be no objection to adding attractiveness to the concerts by having dancing and that those who wish to dance may do so, it remaining only for those who would dance to have the courage of their convictions and introduce the plan, which is now being followed in many eastern cities.

The committee has voted to continue the committee consisting of Otto Wolf, and the secretary and assistant secretary of the chamber of commerce, to have charge of arrangements for all future concerts.

The lowest bid for the construction of the addition to St. Mary's school was $82,000, while other bids of about a dozen covered for the job ran as high as well over $100,000. It is understood that the low bid does not include installation of heating or plumbing systems, nor equipment of the school rooms with desks, seats and other such things.

J. R. McCormack of Quincy, Mass., to be the head of the electrical department after it in the hope of overtaking the little animal for a few minutes' petting party.

E. Cady Hutchins of Walpole, formerly of Danielson is spending the week at the Meadow Brook inn at South Killingly.

Kent A. Darbie, his daughter, Mrs. Florence Princeton, and his grand-son, Robert Princeton, of Broad street, are at Douglas Camp Meeting Grounds for a stay of a few days.

Mrs. R. R. Osterhout and children of Willimantic are visiting for the summer with Mrs. Osterhout's parents, Mr. Mrs. Curtis Wheeler of Mashentuck.

Many were at St. James' church Wednesday morning to attend the services marking the end of the novena in honor of St. Anne, whose feast day was Wednesday.

Miss Margaret Bessette, of Norwich, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgerald of Brooklyn.

Harry A. Fregeau is spending a vacation of two weeks with relatives in Canada.

John C. Howe of Bridgeport was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

Another half-holiday today for the forces of many of the stores in Danielson, and with pleasant weather there will be a number of outings to nearby resorts.

Base fishermen who have been at Moosup pond recently report good luck, though no especially large fish.

The country hereabouts is being scoured these days to be used for making wine. An abundance of these cherries is to be had in this territory this season.

At Quandeck brook, on the Little Rest road, a cement bridge has been widened and the level raised a bit to fit it for use on the new state highway which will be completed, it is now expected, some time in October.

William A. Wilkes of Taunton was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

Miss Loretta Nadeau is at Horse Neck Beach, near New Bedford, for a stay of two weeks.

Miss Regina Benoit of Southbridge has been a visitor with friends in Danielson, her former home.

Friends here received cards Tuesday from Judge W. Fenner Woodward, from Montreal.

ment at the state trade school in this city, was in Putnam Wednesday looking over the field. Mr. McCormack is to assume his new duties August 1. He comes here after having been connected with the General Electric company and is an expert in the line of work for which he has been engaged as an instructor. Mr. McCormack, a young man in his twenties, expressed himself Wednesday as well pleased with Putnam and of the prospect for the work he is to undertake in this city.

The weekly luncheon of the directors of Putnam Chamber of Commerce, at the Putnam Inn was well attended, and several matters of importance were taken up.

Reports rendered on the first of the weekly band concerts, held the previous Wednesday on Union Square, tended to prove that it was a feature that was appreciated. The secretary, Horatio A. Brown, reported that the merchants who had agreed to subscribe toward defraying the costs were more than ever convinced, after the first trial, that it was worth while.

Some sentiment was evident, according to the secretary, in favor of holding some of the concerts in the square near the Congregational church, it was felt, however, that it would be a great injustice to ask the Putnam Light & Power Co., which is furnishing the lighting arrangements as its part of the contributions, to transfer its lighting equipment from one spot to another, and then back to the original location, even if it were possible to do this. This, with other arguments, chief of which is that Union Square is the natural center of the city, led the directors to recommend no change in the original plans.

Some of the merchants along Providence street, however, were reported as favoring concerts to be held in that section, possibly every two weeks, in addition to the concerts in Union square, and the secretary will ascertain if it is feasible to plan for such concerts, each merchant on Providence street and nearby to bear his proportionate share of the expense.

The committee on signs reported that it had made a final draft of the signs needed, and estimated the cost at about $200. Of this, they recommended that the chamber might bear the cost of the large signs, four in number, to be erected at the principal entrances to the city, and the town and city be asked to provide for the directing signs on streets and roads. The committee was instructed to present their plans in final form, ready to be presented to the city and town officials, at the next meeting.

The question of bathing in the town's water supply source was brought up, many residents having brought this to the attention of members of the board. It was brought out that legal opinion had already been sought, and that samples of the water had been analyzed and been found free of any impurities that could be traced to this source.

The assistant secretary reported receipt of a check for $25 from Mrs. Grace Nikoloff, to be devoted to the purchase of additional chairs for the chamber of commerce rooms. This will provide ample seating facilities for any ordinary meeting, and as the rooms are used to a great extent by other civic organizations, will be a direct benefit to these organizations, as well as the chamber. In the past, the rooms have been used without charge, but in the case of largely attended meetings, it has been necessary to rent ordinary folding chairs, the cost being borne by the organization using the rooms.

The donation was accepted with thanks, and it was voted that it be turned over to the committee on furnishings to be expended for the purpose for which it was given.
